

RESUMES

The purpose of your resume is to get you an interview.

Think of your resume as a dynamic and constantly changing document. Format and target your resume(s) to market your best qualifications for specific jobs. Lead with your STRENGTHS and SKILLS. Include the education, experience and skills that will be of greatest interest to the employer at the forefront of the resume and make those areas the most detailed and prominent. From the top down, list the best of what you have accomplished based on where you are going. Make it easy for an employer to see that you are a qualified candidate who should be invited in for an interview. Resumes must be typographically and grammatically perfect, honest and verifiable, targeted and results oriented. PROOFREAD! Spell check does not catch proper names, homophones, or homonyms. Some employers scan resumes to determine qualifications. Include industry or occupation specific KEYWORDS as they relate to your skills and experience.

Spend the appropriate amount of time on your resume. It can take time to pull together all of this information and organize it in an appropriate manner. Be sure you know your audience. Consider the employer, department, and position when writing your resume. You may want to create an “everything resume” which includes a record of everything you have done. Then when you write a one-page document for a specific opportunity, you can pull from your most pertinent experiences for the current opportunity you are targeting.

FORMATTING GUIDELINES:

- Most undergraduate resumes should be one page long. You can change the margins and font size to accommodate your information.
- Use appropriate white space on the page – you can leave blank lines in between headings or job listings – this can make your resume easier to read.
- Fonts should be from 10-12 point, except your name, which can be larger.
- Do not use smaller than ½” margins or larger than 1” all the way around the page.
- Do not use a template when writing your resume. Recruiters see so many of these – make your resume unique. Use only black fonts.

Triple check your spelling and grammar. A simple mistake or typographical error may negatively influence your ability to get an interview. Get several opinions on your resume. Each person who reviews your resume will have a different opinion. Take all of the information you receive and decide what pieces of advice work best for your situation. This is your document.

RESUME CATEGORIES:

HEADER:

- Name – you might want to use bold, all capital letters, or a different font to make this stand out – you may not want to use nicknames here
- Street Address, City, State ZIP – you may want to include both a local and permanent address
- Telephone Number – use the one you want employers to call – consider who will answer the phone and whether or not you will get a reliable message – also be sure that your voicemail message is professional
- Email – use your JHU account or a professional sounding account – avoid email addresses that give away something personal about you
- Website – could be useful if you have an online portfolio or something similar; again, make sure it’s professional

OBJECTIVE:

- Optional Category
- If you include an objective, make sure it is an effective, specific statement. If you choose not to include an objective, make sure that your cover letter is compelling.
- One or two concise, easy-to-read statements focusing on the type of position you are seeking, the skills you want to use, and/or the tasks in which you want to become involved.
- AVOID clichés or jargon, such as, “To contribute to the profitability of an employer” or “A challenging position offering opportunity for growth and advancement.”

SUMMARY:

- Optional Category
- A brief summary of your key skills, research, and years of experience
- List computer, technical, or language skills if applicable
- Include a career goal statement here if appropriate
- A good place to include anything that does not easily fit into another category on your resume
- Your experience sections must show evidence to support your summary; do not repeat information

EDUCATION:

- List degrees in reverse chronological order—most recent first. Keep the information easy to read. Be sure to include your degree, major, school, city, state (or country), and date of graduation for each school. Do not list the range of dates in which you have attended school.
- If you are a freshmen or sophomore, you can include items from high school. If you are a junior or senior, high school information should be removed from your resume.
- You may want to include details related to the job you are seeking, such as relevant coursework, special projects, a minor or area of emphasis, certifications, etc. – this is a great way to incorporate more keywords on your resume if you do not have much experience outside the classroom.
- You can list Study Abroad or international experiences here or under their own category.
- You can also list a relevant coursework subheading in this section that lists 3-5 relevant course titles you have completed at Hopkins
- Include your overall or major GPA if it is a 3.0 or higher.

EXPERIENCE:

- Be sure to include paid employment (full and part time), internships, volunteer activities, community service, leadership, research, class projects, etc.
- Reverse chronological order is expected, but if you have a mixture of experiences, you can break this into two categories, such as RELATED EXPERIENCE and WORK HISTORY in order to put the most relevant items together. Be sure to include job title, company, city, state (or country), and dates of employment for each position.
- Provide details of your accomplishments and responsibilities rather than a general list of duties.

- Quantify your accomplishments. Numbers make strong statements and can enhance credibility; these numbers can show volume, percentages, and dollar amounts. If you have worked with people, include their age or grade level and how many people you interacted with on a project.
- Include specific information and skills that relate to the position you are seeking.
- Consolidate information when possible; avoid repetition and excessive details in describing experiences.
- Use bulleted statements that begin with POWER WORDS, do not use paragraphs. Power words are verbs that demonstrate action (see the list on page 17).
- Think about your accomplishments, points of pride, and the outcomes of your work.
- Be specific. Write in fragmented bullet points that begin with strong action verbs, not sentences. Avoid personal pronouns such as “I”, “my”, “their”, etc.
- Avoid jargon and acronyms (consider your audience).
- Do not be discouraged if you have never had employment in your field. Instead, focus on your strengths, skills, and accomplishments.
- You may organize professional experience into separate categories by type of position (i.e. marketing experience, research experience, etc.)
- Use present tense verbs for things you are still doing and past tense verbs for things you are no longer doing.

ACTIVITIES:

- List the most relevant activities and offices held first. Include college, community, volunteer, professional, cross-cultural, and occasionally, outstanding high school activities.
- Include relevant activities and volunteering especially as related to your field.
- For each activity list: title, organization name, city, state or country, and dates.
- You can add brief explanatory details of the position and your accomplishments.
- Include hobbies and interests only if they are relevant to your objective or if they reveal characteristics or skills important to the job.
- This section can add individuality and flavor to your resume, so you may want to include unusual or interesting items.

HONORS/AWARDS:

- Optional category
- Include honors, scholarships, fellowships, grants, or patents here. Only use this section if you have several items to list.
- If you have only one or two honors, you can include them in a combined ACTIVITIES/HONORS section.

SKILLS:

- You may want to consider a special skills section to highlight skills you have on specific computer hardware or software, foreign languages, or machinery/laboratory equipment required for performance on the job.
- Certifications, licensure, or patents could also be placed in this category.
- It might be useful to include research or lab skills here. Consider listing techniques, procedures, equipment, software, etc. as related to your field.
- Remember that employers are looking for skill sets.

PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

- List any relevant professional associations you belong to
- Include membership dates and any leadership or committee positions you have held

REFERENCES:

- Avoid using “References Available Upon Request”
- Prepare a separate reference page and include your own contact information.
- For each reference list: name, title, company, complete mailing address, email, phone, and fax. If it is not obvious, include how the person knows you.
- Only ask people who can give you a positive reference and who know you well.
- Be sure to give a copy of your resume to each potential reference. You may also want to let them know when a company may be calling. You can provide a copy of the job description to your references.
- Be sure to thank you references and let them know when you receive a job offer!

WHAT NOT TO INCLUDE:

- Pictures or graphics
- Anything handwritten
- Personal information such as date of birth, SSN, marital status, children, etc.
- Unrelated hobbies and interests
- References

PROJECT EXPERIENCE Multithreaded (IM)Chat Server with Peer to Peer Application: Technology used:
C, UNIX Socket Programming

Reliable Multicast over UDP: A multicast engine, which uses Token ring protocol for reliable transfer of multicast messages between group of servers so all of them get messages in an agreed consistent order.

JAVA Communicator: Developed an integrated JAVA application providing communication environment which allows user to hold conference and provide utilities such as white board, chat, presentations in PDF format.

Blue-Fi: Devised and implemented a unique solution in C, enabling remote communication and management of Bluetooth enabled devices overcoming the short range limitation of Bluetooth technology.

Vector Model for Information Retrieval: A vector based Information Retrieval model in PERL for ranking documents on the basis of vector similarity between the two. Extended this project to find word sense disambiguation that occurs in different queries.

Image Search Engine: Created a Vector model Based Search Engine in using Query Expansion and multiple queries input from User. A unique Search Engine that does not store image files but only their links. Created a web robot to crawl the internet to find these links.

Technology used: PERL Mobile P2P networking: Developed P2P file sharing and chat protocols for Nokia N800 tablet PC in C.

Boggle: Developed a version of popular game Boggle in JAVA using MVC pattern and swing classes for GUI.

INDUSTRY EXPERIENCE Engineering Intern Google Inc., Mountain View, California USA (Mentor: M. Pasca) 20XX
Contributed in developing a large-scale (using MapReduce) framework for seed-based textual information extraction of class attributes (e.g. make, model, mpg, etc. for the class of cars) from anonymized query logs. Contribution to the codebase was in the form of a checked in component for computing pairwise similarities of search-signature vectors. Also conducted a preliminary research investigation in automatically extracting comparative statements between two entities from the entire web, and showed a promising direction by identifying high-quality comparative statements via attributes extracted using the above seed-based framework.

TECHNICAL SKILLS Languages: C/C++, Java, C#, Shell Scripting, Perl, JSP, PHP, NesC, Assembly, VHDL
Software Platforms: Windows Mobile SDK, ASP.NET, J2EE, Ruby on Rails, Hadoop, OpenMPI, Visual Studio 2008, Eclipse, Matlab, XAMP

Operating Systems: TinyOS, Windows CE, Maemo, MAC OSX, Linux, Windows

Network Protocols: TCP/IP, Ethernet, Wifi, GSM, Bluetooth, RF, Zigbee

Databases: Oracle, MySQL, SQL Server Compact

Hardware: MSP430, ATmega8L, AT89C51, 8085, FPGA programming

LANGUAGE SKILLS Fluent in Hindi and Gujarati

You can include course projects to show the variety of experiences you have had as a student.

If you have a lot of computer skills be sure to list them specifically. Employers look for these key words.
